The following Personal Information is collected by the Developer via the App:

- Profile information: your username, display name, email, picture (if it’s provided by you).
- Geolocation, either based on GPS data, WiFi or cellular networks. Unless you turn on the Invisibility mode in the App or revoke the location permission for it, the geolocation may be collected at any time while the App is installed on your mobile device.

Collected Personal Information may be used for the following purposes:

- Creating accounts.
- Identifying you as a user.
- Providing the LocateNow service.
- Performing user support.
- Improving the application.
- Notifying you about news related to the App or the Developer.

Aforementioned Personal Information may be shared between certain users of applications created by the Developer. In all cases, such sharing requires your explicit consent.

While using the App, in order to share your geolocation with some other user, you must accept a permission request sent by that user to you. And you can revoke your permission back at any time after that, which will cause the App to stop sharing your geolocation with that user.

The Developer will not disclose your Personal Information to any third parties. And your Personal Information will be protected with all reasonable efforts from unauthorized access.

Logs

The Developer reserves the right to record and collect log files describing the usage of the App by you. Logs may include the details of when the App starts, goes online, receives data from the server and other technical details – along with corresponding timestamps. Such logs will not be disclosed by the Developer to anyone, and this information will be used solely for App's improvement and development.
